. It has come to our attention that the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees is in the process of picking a name for the riew multi-uprose building nearing completion on the Edwardsville campus.

Names suggested, thus far, include Founders Hall, recognizing the numerous area citizens who played a part in creating and building the campus, and the Vadalabene Building, honoring State Sen. Sam Vadalabene of Edwardsville.

"Senator Sam" has had many things named after him, including a togload ported at the Tri-City

Regional Port, but naming the multi-purpose building after him would be a highlight of his career. There cash he no question that Vadiabene was very active in getting the funds to build the building and many feet he SiUE campus would not have the new facility without his hard work and guidance. While many, including several Quad-Cityans, worked hard to make the Edwardsville campus a reality and deserve recognition, we feet the multi-purpose building was Sen. Sam's baby and deserves to bear his name. How about the Vadiabene Athletic Centel?

As a youngster growing up in Madison, Toncoff and his buddies would walk the 12 miles (one way) over the Mc Kinley Bridge to the old Sportsmari 9 Park on North Grand to see the Bronx Bombers and their aces, the Bambino, and the Yankees play the Browns.

Toncoff starred at the University of Illinois from 1932 through 1937, allowing, him one year out to earn money to continue. It was in the spring of 1933, playing for Carl Lundgren, the Illin's coach, that Toncoff blasted out his record-breaking 460 average. He atdas: While the boy likes,—and is an excellent kicker... football, I believe that he really loves baseball better. However, and a pro career, in both sports." When Toncoff came back to Grantie City from his original teaching jobs in Florida drier giving up pro baseball, he assisted Keith Parker in football, Dick Harmon in basketball and Al Lewis in baseball at Grantie City's then Senior High.

If Toncoff has any bitterness at all about his baseball career he keeps it fairly well concealed. "The Braves were able, and permitted to, keep me hidden for nearly 10 years. I believe that he had been been a long stay in the majors. But, who knows?"

He still remains active in Illini aluminfunctions. And attends most of their affairs both at Champaign-Urbana, as well as St. Louis meetings of the faithful.

In fact, he displayed a recent news release from Illinois detailing the exploits of the 1983 baseball team: an Illini hitter; one Tim Richardson, had flirted with breaking his balting record. He finished the season with a 419 average, still well under his 1983 mark of 460.

Secretary's choice

A 1962 law designated the secretary of the Treasury as the one responsible for deciding who will have the honor of appearing on U.S. currency. But in most cases other Treasury officials and the director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing — and some-times even the president are consulted before a final decision is made.
